2016 BLACK HISTORY MONTH
Together We Will Rise

Opening Ceremony

Wednesday, January 27, 2016
12:50pm to 2:20pm - SAC Auditorium

Dr. John H. Bracey, Jr.
Chair,
W.E.B. Du Bois
Department of
Afro-American Studies,
University of Massachusetts Amherst

Prof. Sonia Sanchez
Poet; Educator; and Lecturer on Black
Culture and Literature,
Women’s Liberation;
and Racial Justice;
Professor Emeritus,
Temple University

Dr. James E. Smethurst
Professor,
W.E.B. Du Bois
Department of
Afro-American Studies,
University of Massachusetts Amherst

Co-editors of SOS - Calling All Black People: A Black Arts Reader, the history of the Black Arts Movement of the 1960’s and 1970’s

Stony Brook University is an equal opportunity employer and educator. Consistent with Federal and State guidelines, Stony Brook University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, age, ethnicity, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, or veterans status in its educational programs or employment. If a disability-related accommodation is needed, please call 631.632.7206. Title IX prohibits sex discrimination in all forms, including sexual violence and/or harassment. Contact Marjolie Leonard, Director for Title IX and Risk Management, Office of Diversity and Affirmative Action, 201 Administration Building, (p) 631.632.6280.