Non-matriculated students are not eligible to receive most kinds of financial aid. Students from other institutions who plan to take courses in the program as visiting students should see a financial aid counselor on their home campus about continuing to receive financial aid.

Those students who are permitted to enroll on a non-matriculating basis cannot graduate from the University in this status. Courses and grades earned may be applied toward a degree program at Stony Brook and used to fulfill the University’s residence requirements should a student subsequently be permitted to matriculate. As with matriculated students, a permanent record is kept by the University’s Office of Records.

Non-matriculated students’ academic performance is reviewed at the conclusion of each semester. Students who earn less than a 2.00 cumulative grade point average at the completion of each semester are not permitted to continue. Students are permitted to complete a maximum of 24 credits on a non-matriculating basis. Upon completion of 24 credits, students who wish to continue their studies at Stony Brook University must apply for matriculation. Students who do not wish to matriculate or are not admitted as a matriculated student will not be permitted to continue their studies at the University.
