Public Graduate Humanities Fellows Lectures
Spring 2018

Javier Gastón-Greenberg
PhD Candidate
Hispanic Languages & Literature

“Hero Genesis: The Secret Language of Comics for Immigrant Youth”

Tuesday, April 17, 2018
4:00 PM
1008 Humanities

The Public Humanities Fellowship has enabled Javier Gastón-Greenberg to develop and implement a project called “Hero Genesis” -- a high school curricula that employs comic book culture and its secret language to discover the hidden powers inhabiting immigrant youth in New York City. Its’ purpose is to channel youth expression through professional development workshops for educators and in-school responsive curricula that harnesses multimodal comic-themed medias to generate original hero stories.

Questions? See our website www.stonybrook.edu/hisb.
The Humanities Institute at Stony Brook | 1013 Humanities Bldg | Stony Brook University | Stony Brook, NY 11794-5354