The School of Criticism and Theory at Cornell University
2017 Summer Session

The Humanities Institute at Stony Brook is pleased to announce the availability of one graduate fellowship for Cornell University’s School of Criticism and Theory for the summer of 2017 funded by HISB. The SCT is a six-week summer institute that has existed for more than 30 years and provides the opportunity for graduate students and faculty members to take seminars with some of the world’s leading critical theorists. The SCT provides an unparalleled opportunity for advanced training in critical theory and for making connections with an international cohort of peers and world-class scholars.

This summer’s SCT will take place between June 18–July 27, 2017.

Students interested in applying for the HISB-funded Fellowship must submit their application through HISB. Do not submit any materials directly to Cornell.

Applications be vetted by a committee comprised of HISB faculty board members.

The deadline for consideration for the 2017 HISB-Funded Fellowship is Thursday, December 15, 2016 by 12pm (EST).

Please provide hard copies of the following items for your application:

1. A statement of no more than two pages describing current scholarly interests and plans and how the School of Criticism and Theory might further those interests and plans. The statement should include information about courses taken and/or taught in criticism and theory.

2. Two confidential letters of recommendation (in sealed envelopes)

3. A current curriculum vitae

4. A sample of recent writing (general guideline is 20 – 30 pages, double-spaced)

5. An official transcript (for current graduate students)

Questions? Please e-mail adrienne.unger@stonybrook.edu