Friday, October 13, 2017

10:00-10:30  Coffee and Welcome

10:30-11:15  Latin Teaching in the United States
             (10 minutes each + discussion)

             Where is Latin Teaching, How Did We Get Here, Where Are We Going?
             Jeff Greenberger

             Latin Teaching in American schools
             Kathleen Durkin and David Bonagura

             Latin Teaching in American universities
             Kathleen de Riesthal

11:15-12:30  Invited Talk

             The Teaching of Latin in Italy and Europe:
             Present State and Perspectives of Renewal
             Renato Oniga (University of Udine, Italy)

12:30-1:30  Lunch

1:30-3:15  Linguistics in American Schools
           (10 minutes each + discussion)

PART 1

A Quick Look Back at Linguistics in US classrooms
Maya Honda and Wayne O’Neil

Offering an ‘Introduction to Linguistics’ Course in High Schools
Suzanne Loosen

Grammar for Everyone
Beth Keyser

Honors Linguistics
Ian Connolly
PART 2

Introducing Linguistics through Hands-On Research
Christina Tortora

NACLO as an Introduction to Linguistics
Lori Repetti

The LSA’s AP Linguistics Effort
Richard Larson

3:30-4:00 Coffee Break

4:00-5:00 Screening

Kernels and Transformations (1965)
Educational TV films on transformational grammar, a project of the Oregon Curriculum Study Center at the University of Oregon.
Introduction and discussion by Wayne O’Neil, the films’ protagonist.

6:00-8:00 Reception

Saturday, October 14, 2017

8:00-9:00 Breakfast

9:00-10:15 Linguists Teaching Latin
(10 minutes each + discussion)

Latin Teaching by a Linguist in California
Jessica DeLisi

Latin Teaching by a Linguist in Tennessee
Clint Hartzell

Latin Teaching by a Linguist in Ohio
Victoria Kirgesner

From Classics to Linguistics and Back Again
John Van Way

Introducing Linguistics Materials into Latin Classes
Michael De Salvo

10:15-11:00 Brainstorming and New Curricular Ideas

11:00-11:30 Closing Remarks