

RESEARCH ASSISTANT – DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY, STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY. Full-time position in Professor Daniel Klein’s lab available starting in June, 2017. The position involves working on a National Institute of Mental Health-funded study of early precursors and risk factors for the development of depression and anxiety in adolescents.

Major responsibilities will include conducting clinical interviews, collecting psychophysiological and other biological data, and project coordination. Applicants should have a Bachelors degree in Psychology or a related field. Experience working with adolescents is highly desirable. Applicants should have excellent interpersonal and time management skills. A two-year commitment is expected.

Please apply via this link: <https://stonybrooku.taleo.net/careersection/2/jobdetail.ftl?job=1700240>

Also, please send a CV and arrange for a letter of recommendation to be emailed to Dr. Klein at daniel.klein@stonybrook.

STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY IS AN AFFIRMATIVE ACTION/EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EDUCATOR AND EMPLOYER. Applications from women, people of color, individuals with disabilities, special disabled veterans or Vietnam veterans are especially welcome.