

Public Lecture & Student Conference

THE LIMITS & OPPORTUNITIES OF NONVIOLENT RESISTANCE: LESSONS FROM HISTORY & CURRENT CONFLICTS

Wednesday, May 7, 2003

CELT conference room - Frank Melville Library, E 1337

Public Lecture

4:00 PM - 5:30 PM

followed by a

Student Conference on Global Conflict & Nonviolent Solutions

6:00PM - 9:00PM

The student conference is also open to the public. It provides an opportunity for participants to discuss nonviolent solutions to global conflicts.

Countries discussed will include Afghanistan, Argentina, Cyprus, Iraq, Poland, India, The Netherlands, The Dominican Republic, Colombia & Yugoslavia

SPEAKERS: JACK DUVALL & SHAAZKA BEYERLE

DuVall is co-author of the widely acclaimed book A Force More Powerful: A Century of Nonviolent Conflicts (Palgrave/St. Martin's Press 2001) and Executive Producer of the two-part Emmy-nominated PBS-TV series of the same title.

Beyerle is Associate Director of the International Center on Nonviolent Conflicts and expert on the Israeli-Palestinian conflict

Sponsors: The University Committee on Globalization, the Federated Learning Community Program on Globalization, the Center for Excellence in Learning & Teaching, a Presidential Mini-Grant for Teaching Innovation & the Students for Peace & Humanity