

One-day Zazenkai
with
Sensei Genshin Edgar Kann

“In Zen Buddhism practice is essential. What you learn in Buddhism must be your own experience. It cannot be learned by reading or thinking. You must get beyond your personal self. What self then appears? You must find out. Who is then the one who finds out? Only by dissolving the self can a new self come into being who finds this out.”

9 AM - 4 PM, Saturday, October 28, 2006
Wang Center, Room 101
Stony Brook University

Genshin was ordained as a Zen Buddhist monk in 1981 by Zen Master Kyozan Joshu Sasaki, Roshi (born April 1, 1907), now the senior living monk of the Myoshinji group of temples in Japan . Sasaki Roshi is founder and head abbot of the Mt. Baldy Zen Center, California. Genshin first became a student of Roshi in 1973. His wife Myoshin Rita was also ordained by Sasaki Roshi. Myoshin and Genshin hold regular Zen practice open to the public in their home in Setauket , the Long Island Zen Center : <http://www.zenli.org/home.htm>

Genshin taught mathematics at Queens College , City University of New York for 27 years before retiring. Ph,D in mathematics from Courant Institute of Mathematics, New York University .

Both beginners and experienced practitioners are welcome.

Bring your own lunch and water.

$20 donation suggested.

For campus directions, please visit: <http://ws.cc.sunysb.edu/doit/maps.html>
Presented by Buddhist Studies and Practice Group, SBU and the Charles B. Wang Center <http://www.stonybrook.edu/wang> <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/bsp-g-sbu>