

STONY BROOK RESOURCES TEAM SCAVENGER HUNT

Even though Stony Brook University is a world-class research institution with a footprint that reaches from Manhattan to Southampton, it will only be a short time before YOU are an expert on all the wonderful activities and services our campus has to offer.

The Stony Brook University homepage is your nexus to accessing everything from recreational activities to academic calendars. In fact, there are thirteen different areas of content available to you:

TEAM #1 & 2	TEAM #3	TEAM #4
Student Services	Activities, Culture, and Recreation	Parents and Students
Computing and Technology	Careers and Internships	International Students and Programs
Health and Safety	Governance and Conduct	Summer at Stony Brook
Giving and Good Works	Student Media	Where to Get Help

Some of these content areas may be of more interest to you right now than others, but ALL will inevitably prove to be valuable resources during your Stony Brook journey. The purpose of this activity is to help acclimate you with the campus by introducing you to these key areas of the university. As you start exploring the campus you will quickly discover how inter-connected many of our diverse services are and you will see first-hand that while we may have 15,000 students on-campus we want each student to know that YOU are our top priority.

Directions:

- Teams will be assigned to one of the above groups.
- Teams will be responsible for researching the offices, services, and activities in their assigned content area.
- Teams will present a 2–3 minute overview of what they learned at the next class. The presentation should cover:
 - The most impressive things they learned
 - The most helpful things they learned

For example, there are 26 departments that offer Student Services at Stony Brook University. It would be impossible to talk about all 26 departments, but groups would certainly entertain a lively discussion trying to figure out which departments they want to highlight.

Goals:

1. By the end of this project students will have a broad sense of the vast array of services available on-campus
2. Students will have an increased awareness of select-offices highlighted by their peers
3. Information on all departments and services may be accessed from the university website:
4. www.stonybrook.edu and selecting “For Students” from the left navigation menu
