At the Leadership Summit Field Day emerging leaders work toward reaching goals as a team by completing a day of mental and physical activities along with motivation and educational workshops. The summit is meant to be challenging enough to promote close teamwork in order to overcome obstacles efficiently and successfully. The team builders and workshops presented throughout the day help to promote selflessness and a sense of encouragement, which are essential to a strong team. Every opportunity for the participants throughout the day will be a chance for them to build upon their leadership exposure and challenge themselves by choice. SO what are you waiting for?
