Linguistics is the science of language. Language is at once the most diverse and the most clearly structured aspect of human behavior. It distinguishes humans from other species and much of human culture depends on it. Understanding the nature of human language is therefore a key to understanding human nature. Linguistics seeks to discover the common features of the languages of the world's peoples, to understand how languages change over time, and how language relates to other aspects of human society.

The major in Linguistics is designed to provide graduates with a set of skills and a body of knowledge. A graduate will have the skills to analyze the most important features of language: sounds, words, sentences, and conversation, using both formal and experimental methods. Students will also learn what linguists know about the languages of the world, their history and structure, and how language interacts with many facets of all cultures.

The Department also prepares its majors for provisional certification as Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages in New York State (TESOL) from kindergarten through grade 12. Candidates for TESOL certification must follow a specific track within the major that is included in the sample course sequence given below, which includes a semester of student teaching. Approximately half of Linguistics majors elect this track in the major. It is also common for Linguistics majors to have a second major, either in a language or in an adjacent field such as psychology or computer science.

Options for further education that are taken by graduates include professional school in such areas as speech pathology and law, and graduate school in linguistics, philosophy, psychology, and computer science. A few graduates have gone on to technical positions in industry that involve speech engineering.

Instruction in uncommonly taught languages not offered elsewhere in the University is provided by the Department of Linguistics.

7. Upper-Division Writing Requirement:
   In the junior or senior year, students must successfully complete LIN 300 Writing in Linguistics, a one-credit course.

Notes:
1. A course on the structure of a language offered by a foreign language department may be substituted for LIN 431 with the permission of the director of undergraduate studies in Linguistics.
2. Students majoring in Linguistics may be interested in the following courses offered through other departments:
   - EGL 300, 380
   - FLA 339, 439, 440
   - FRN 411
   - GER 438, 439

   - PHI 325
   - RUS 439
   - PSY 365
   - SPN 393, 462, 463, 465
3. Students electing TESOL may not take any courses required for certification for Pass/No Credit.
Requirements for TESOL certification are detailed following the Linguistics minor and honors program listings.

Requirements for the Minor in Linguistics (LIN)
The minor requires 20 credits.

1. LIN 201 Phonetics
2. LIN 211 Syntax
3. Four additional linguistics courses, of which at least three must be upper division.

Notes:
1. One of the courses required for the minor may be taken for Pass/No Credit.
2. Linguistics minors that are closely integrated with students’ majors are strongly encouraged. The fields with which linguistics has special affinities are: anthropology, psychology, English, foreign languages, philosophy, and computer science.
3. Students must consult with the director of undergraduate studies in linguistics to enroll in the minor.

Honors Program
Linguistics majors who have maintained a G.P.A. of 3.50 in the major are eligible to graduate with departmental honors. An additional requirement for honors is the submission of a senior thesis based on research performed during the senior year. Students must submit a written thesis proposal for approval to a sponsoring faculty member in the semester prior to the start of their senior year. Acceptance into the honors program depends on approval of the proposal by the sponsoring faculty member, the director of undergraduate studies and the department.

LIN 495 and LIN 496 will be taken as a 2 semester sequence during the senior year; for a total of six credits. Students will receive only one grade upon completion of the sequence. These courses must be taken in addition to the total credits required for the major. The student’s thesis must be completed and submitted no later than 3 weeks prior to the end of the semester in which they are enrolled in LIN 496. The thesis will be read and evaluated by a committee consisting of the student’s sponsor, one other member of the Department of Linguistics, and one faculty member from another department, as arranged by the director of undergraduate studies.

If the thesis is accepted by the committee and the student retains a 3.50 G.P.A. for all linguistics courses taken, the department will recommend that honors be conferred.

Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) Preparation Program

The TESOL Teacher Education Program prepares undergraduates for initial certification as Pre-K-12 teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages.    • LIN 101 Introduction to General Linguistics
   • LIN 201 Phonetics
   • LIN 211 Syntax
   • LIN 301 Phonology

Five-Year Combined B.A./M.A. Program with Teacher Certification in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL)

In addition to the regular B.A. program in Linguistics with teacher certification and the regular M.A. in TESOL, the Linguistics department offers a five-year combined B.A./M.A. degree program. Upon completion of the five-year program, graduates will hold a Bachelor’s degree in Linguistics, New York State teaching certification in TESOL, and a Master’s degree in TESOL. The combined program will allow students the opportunity to complete these requirements one semester sooner than students who complete the programs sequentially. The combined program is restricted to students with an outstanding undergraduate record who are expected to excel in the graduate program.

During the first four semesters as an undergraduate, students in the combined program will pursue a normal course of study for the B.A. in Linguistics with New York State certification in TESOL. Students must apply to the five-year combined program in the second semester of the sophomore year. During the third year of study students will take two pedagogy courses and the field components associated with them at the graduate level, and will student-teach in the second semester of the fourth year. They will then enter the graduate program prepared to complete the M.A. degree in one year of full-time study.

The following are the minimum requirements for admission to the combined program:

1. A minimum GPA of 3.0 overall and 3.3 in linguistics courses;
2. The PEP admissions essay;
3. Recommendations from two linguistics faculty members;
4. Interviews with the Undergraduate Director in Linguistics and the Director of the TESOL program.
