Faculty
Please see the faculty listing in the entry for the Department of European Languages, Literatures, and Cultures.

Pursuing French as an academic field means mastering the language in addition to studying the literature and the social and political culture of France and French-speaking countries. French is spoken all around the globe—in Europe, Africa, Asia, Canada, and the Caribbean—where it has produced rich national literatures and diverse cultures over the span of many centuries. As a recent Association of the Teachers of French publication has stated, “French is the other international language.” Command of the language is the first prerequisite to entrance into the discipline which depends upon linguistic, literary, and analytical skills. On a more practical level, French is the language of government, law, management, and business in many regions of the international community, and the study of French as used in these areas is an applied field within the discipline.

Students who graduate with a major in French pursue diverse careers and employment. Many become teachers or take positions in international commerce, marketing, banking, or travel (e.g., airlines, travel agencies, Club Med). Others work in fields of government, publishing, journalism, or international relations. As a liberal arts major, French is also the choice of some who go on to professional schools in law, management and business, library science, computer technology, or medicine.

Placement in Language Courses for Incoming Students
The prerequisites for courses indicate approximate placement levels. One year of high school foreign language is generally considered the equivalent of one college semester. Students are advised to consult the Director of Undergraduate Studies or the Coordinator of the French Program if they believe the recommended course is inappropriate. The State University of New York and Stony Brook University have determined that a score of 85 or higher on the State Regent’s exam is sufficient for Stony Brook University foreign language competence. Students scoring this grade or higher on the Regent’s exam in French do not need to take French at Stony Brook, but are highly encouraged to do so.

The major in French Language and Literature leads to the Bachelor of Arts degree. Students must complete Concentration A or Concentration B. These concentrations are designed to allow maximum flexibility in the students’ programs and to fulfill their varying needs and interests. Both require as a basis a solid preparation in French. Concentration A provides preparation for graduate study in literature; concentrations A and B both provide appropriate background for students preparing for work in law, government, international relations, business, banking, hotel management, or translation and interpretation. Students interested in teaching French in secondary schools may choose either Concentration A or B. However, they must have 36 credits in FRN before the State of New York will certify them. Please see the staff of the Foreign Language Secondary Teacher Education Program for further advising in this area. Foreign language education students are also highly encouraged to study more than one foreign language.

All courses offered for the major, excluding those graded S/U, must be passed with a letter grade of C or higher. Transfer students must take at least 12 credits of French in residence at Stony Brook. Please note that the FRN 475 (Undergraduate Teaching Practicum) may not count for the major or minor.

Completion of the major requires 36 credits for Concentration A (all in FRN or HUF) or 42 credits for Concentration B (30 credits of FRN and HUF, and 12 credits of a non-FRN discipline). All students should consult with the Director of the French Program.

Requirements for the Major in French Language and Literature (FRN)

The major in French Language and Literature leads to the Bachelor of Arts degree. Students must complete Concentration A or Concentration B. These concentrations are designed to allow maximum flexibility in the students’ programs and to fulfill their varying needs and interests. Both require as a basis a solid preparation in French. Concentration A provides preparation for graduate study in literature; concentrations A and B both provide appropriate background for students preparing for work in law, government, international relations, business, banking, hotel management, or translation and interpretation. Students interested in teaching French in secondary schools may choose either Concentration A or B. However, they must have 36 credits in FRN before the State of New York
C. Upper-Division Writing Requirement

To demonstrate proficiency in writing English, students majoring in French must present a dossier of a minimum of two papers of at least three to five pages each. The dossier must be submitted before the end of the second semester of the senior year to the designated faculty advisor for French. Since this requirement is a University requirement and not a French requirement, the Undergraduate French advisor will accept research papers written in English for any course students have taken at Stony Brook University. Graded papers are much preferred.

For students who do not have research papers written in English, they must translate two papers written for their FRN courses from French to English.

Notes:
1. Students whose language proficiency is such that they can be exempted from FRN 311, 312 may, and are strongly urged to, apply to have courses in art, music, history, or another language count for major credit.

2. Students who wish to offer their native language as the main area of concentration are asked to replace FRN 311, 312, 410, and 411 by English courses appropriate to their level of proficiency in that language.

Foreign Language Secondary Teacher Education Program

See the Education and Teacher Certification entry in the alphabetical listings of Approved Majors, Minors, and Programs.

Requirements for the Minor in French (FRN)

All courses offered for the minor must be taken for a letter grade, excluding those graded S/U. All upper-division courses offered for the minor must be passed with a grade of C or higher. Students must complete either A. Emphasis on Language or B. Emphasis on Literature. Transfer students must take at least six credits of upper-division French or Italian courses in residence at Stony Brook.

Completion of the minor requires 21 credits.

A. Emphasis on Language

Required courses:
- FRN 311 Conversation and Composition
- FRN 312 Introduction to Stylistics

- FRN 312 Introduction to Stylistics
- FRN 395 Readings in French Literature I
- FRN 396 Readings in French Literature II

Electives:
- Three literature courses at the 300 level

Honors Program in French

To be eligible to participate in the honors program, majors must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.00 and an average of 3.50 in French through the junior year. An eligible student wishing to write a senior thesis must find a faculty member of the Department to act as thesis advisor. The student, with the approval of this advisor, must submit a proposal of a project in writing to the Department. Deadline for submission of the proposal for fall semester is April 30 and for spring semester is November 30. Final selection of candidates and topics is determined by an honors committee of the Department. Students selected for the program must enroll in FRN 495 for the semester in which the thesis is written. The thesis is evaluated by the thesis advisor, another member of the Department, and a third reader from outside the Department. For further information consult the director of undergraduate studies.
