Women and Gender Studies

The Women's and Gender Studies (WST) major is an interdisciplinary area of study that leads to the Bachelor of Arts degree. Students in the program use research methodology and rely on theoretical scholarship to examine social, political, cultural, and transnational identities with an emphasis on women and gender.

Not only does the women's and gender studies track consider traditional concepts, but it also challenges and enriches them and ourselves. In reconsidering the history of women through new cultural lenses, WST students gain valuable skills that will go with them as they daringly move into their professions and careers.
