HIS/POL214
MODERN LATIN AMERICAN HISTORY
(GLO/SBS)

CLASS MEETINGS: M/W, 11:45-12:40 (ON-LINE; SYNCHRONOUS)
RECITATION SECTIONS: MON (10:30-11:25), WED (9:15-10:10), FRI (11:45-12:40)

This introductory survey aims to introduce students to the trajectory of modern Latin America, from the early nineteenth century to the present. Our goal is to gain a deeper understanding of some of the central historical themes that have shaped Latin American society and politics since achieving independence, thus leading students to acquire a basis for making sound observations and judgments about the political, economic, social, and cultural realities affecting Latin America today. The class will move chronologically as well as thematically, covering topics such as nationalism, political economy, U.S.-Latin American relations, revolutionary & counterrevolutionary struggle, and cultural practices. To do so we will approach the hemisphere comparatively, drawing similarities and differences between different nation-states and regions.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

GLO: “Engage Global Issues”

1. Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of the interconnectedness of the world, past and present.

2. Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of Latin America.

SBS: “Understand, Observe, and Analyze Human Behavior and Societal Constructs”

1. Understand the major concepts and phenomena that form the basis of knowledge in the social sciences.

2. Understand methods of inquiry into the social world and the methods social and behavioral scientists use to explore social phenomena including observation, hypothesis development, measurement and data collection, experimentation, and the evaluation and application of evidence.

3. Understand various types of theory that organize predictions and evidence in the social sciences.
4. Skillfully interpret and form educated opinions on social science issues.

Additional Learning Objectives:

1. Demonstrate mastery of the conceptual vocabulary needed to interpret the modern history of Latin America and to use this vocabulary appropriately.

2. Demonstrate analytical understanding of contemporary debates concerning Latin America with respect to economic development options, national identity, and relations with the United States.

3. Evaluate the ways in which U.S. foreign policy has played an integral role in Latin America’s history and contemporary politics.

4. Identify the principal features of Latin American geography.

By the end of the course, students should have a solid understanding of the foundational issues facing the development of the nation-state in Latin America, from an historical as well as contemporary perspective. Reading and writing assignments are designed to help students develop critical reading and thinking, and to provide an opportunity for students to demonstrate their capacity as self-guided, interdisciplinary learners capable of independent analysis.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Lectures will be done synchronously via Zoom during the assigned course period. All lectures will be automatically uploaded to the Zoom Cloud on Blackboard. Lectures will feature a combination of Power Point presentation, break-out sessions among small groups of students, and occasional short videos or other audiovisual materials. You will need access to a computer with a video monitor and headphone connection. (Please do not watch lectures on an iPhone except in exceptional circumstances.) It is essential that you do the assigned readings prior to class in order to adequately participate in the break-out sessions with your peers. You may wish to consult these links, established by the Dean of Students, to assist with the on-line learning environment: Keep Learning Student Tech Guide and 4 Simple Ways to Succeed in Online Classes

Participation/Attendance (15%): Participation grade incorporates Recitation attendance record, in-class participation during break-out rooms, and a brief response on BB to a weekly question that corresponds with class readings. If you are unable to attend your assigned Recitation class for a particular week, you may (with permission of the professor) switch to a different section for that week only in order to receive attendance credit. All students are allowed one "excused absence" from Recitation. Subsequent absences will be marked down by 2 points from the Participation Grade for each instance.
Map Quiz (5%): Requires proper identification of countries and capitals of Latin America (see p. 5 in Mead, History of Modern Latin America textbook). You may retake the map quiz for credit (highest grade will be assigned) but this must be done before the midterm and during TA/professor's office hours only. See the practice map (identical to the quiz) attached to the syllabus; it is also located under "Quizzes" in Blackboard.

Quizzes (20%): There will be five announced quizzes throughout the semester based on readings and lecture material.

Midterm (30%): In-class exam based on identifications, matching, and map information. The exam will draw from lectures and assigned readings.

Final Essay Outline/Draft (5%): Initial outline with draft introductory paragraph and selected bibliography due on/before Week XIII. See below for websites that are useful for Latin American current events. Further guidelines to be distributed.

Final Essay (25%): 5-7 page essay examining any contemporary topic in Latin America viewed through the lens of historical interpretation. Due on date of final exam.

STATEMENT ON GRADING

I expect a high level of professionalism for all written work. For insights on how to write properly and use Chicago Style footnote citation, please visit the Undergraduate Resources page at the History Department website. To receive an “A” in this course, you must have an exceptional attendance record and demonstrate an upper-level of competency on quizzes, the midterm, and final writing assignment. This means showing that you understand the course material not simply at a narrative or factual level, but also analytically. To receive a “B” in this course, you must have a strong attendance record and demonstrate a solid level of competency on the quizzes, midterm exam, and final writing assignment. Similar to the “A” level, you are expected to demonstrate an active engagement with the course materials, though the difference between an “A” and “B”-level student is revealed in the degree of analytical thought and professionalism that goes into the final assignment. Students who receive a “C” in this course will have a solid attendance record and demonstrate competency on the quizzes, midterm, and final writing assignment. A competent grasp of the materials shows that you are able to discern the narrative arguments and have a firm grasp of the factual materials.

EXTRA-CREDIT

During the course of the semester there will be various public events related to Latin American politics & culture, sponsored by the Latin American and Caribbean Studies (LACS) Center and other programs. You are strongly encouraged to attend these events and as an added incentive may turn in a 1-2 page reflective analysis of any event for Extra Credit. These reflections will not be graded formally but will factor into your final mark for the course. You may also watch one of the films noted on the syllabus and submit a 1-2 pg. reflection that incorporates course work into your discussion of the film. All work must be turned in within 10 days of the event. Students interested in becoming a Latin American & Caribbean Studies (LACS) Minor should speak with the professor. If you are interested in knowing more about LACS events, please consider following LACS @StonyBrookLACS (Twitter) and StonyBrookLACS (Facebook).

STUDENT ACCESSIBILITY SUPPORT CENTER

If you have a physical, psychological, medical, or learning disability that may impact your course work, please contact the Student Accessibility Support Center, 128 ECC Building, (631) 632-6748, or at sasc@Stonybrook.edu. They will determine with you what accommodations are necessary and appropriate. All information and documentation are confidential. Students who require assistance during emergency evacuation are encouraged to discuss their needs with their professors and review information at the Student Accessibility Support Center.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Each student will be asked to read and sign a “Honor Code” form designed for our Zoom age. This Honor Code expects that all students will pursue academic goals honestly and accept personal accountability for all submitted work. Representing another person's work as your own is always wrong. Instances of academic dishonesty will receive a “zero” for that assignment and may be reported to the Academic Judiciary. For more comprehensive information on academic integrity, including categories of academic dishonesty, please refer to the website of academic judiciary.

CRITICAL INCIDENT MANAGEMENT

Stony Brook University expects students to respect the rights, privileges, and property of other people. Faculty are required to report to the Office of Judicial Affairs any disruptive behavior that interrupts their ability to teach, compromises the safety of the learning environment, or inhibits students' ability to learn.

COMPUTER/BLACKBOARD ASSISTANCE

The Division of Information Technology provides assistance to all who are having trouble accessing a system and/or connecting to the campus network. Should you have any issues, please contact the service desk or call 631-632-9800.

BOOKS REQUIRED FOR PURCHASE

It is not necessary to purchase the most recent edition, but you are responsible for keeping on top of the readings even if the page numbers on the syllabus seem out of alignment with your edition.
