Satisfies: SBS, USA [DEC: K & 4]

Instructor: Bonnie Soper
Summer Session II, Online Asynchronous

This class analyzes the history of the United States from 1900 to the present through the lens of women’s experiences. In doing so, we will consider the integral roles of race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, and class and their intersection with gender in shaping the history of the United States. This includes looking at not only textual sources, but also music, paintings, movies, novels, and other forms of expression. This is your opportunity to engage with women’s history in comprehensive and interactive ways. Assessment will consist of weekly reading responses and a final paper.
