The program in Italian Studies offers Major, Minor, Master’s of Arts, and Master’s of Arts in Teaching. The Undergraduate degrees are designed to allow great flexibility: a Major or Minor in Italian Studies can be combined with a number of other programs, according to the student's interests, to maximize competencies aimed at the job market, or stand as a sole major as intro to graduate studies or to a career in teaching. Students in the program are strongly encouraged to spend a semester in Florence, at our partner institution, at no added costs yet transferring scholarships and financial aid; the Center for Italian Studies offers a number of competitive scholarships and prizes. The program in Italian Studies will prepare you to a career in a field in which Italy is a world leader!