WELCOME

Dear Seawolves and Seawolf Families,

Welcome to Stony Brook University! You are now part of a vibrant and diverse campus community with many opportunities to get involved and resources available to help our students successfully transition to this new chapter in their life.

If you are joining us as a first year student, the Undergraduate Colleges (UGCs) will play an important role in your new student experience. They are small communities that group students with common interests, help ease the transition to college, and create a sense of belonging by providing customized advising and support.

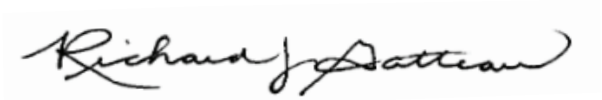
If you are joining us as a new transfer student, we have an array of services available to support your transition and success at Stony Brook, including general and major academic advising, tutoring, and a specialized transfer course called ADV 101.

In support of all students, we offer many opportunities to engage in campus life, build friendships with fellow Seawolves, and strengthen leadership skills. We strongly encourage students to get involved during their first semester in one or more of our 350 student clubs and organizations, cultural groups, and intramural sports teams. Students should download the CORQ app and check stonybrook.edu/sbengaged for real time information about campus programs and events.

We also provide comprehensive resources to enhance students' academic, career, and personal growth and development. Please visit stonybrook.edu/studentaffairs and stonybrook.edu/studentsuccess to learn more about all the resources available, both as new students and family members. All of our academic and student services departments are here to help our students be successful. Reach out to us when you have a question or concern. We're here for you!

Congratulations on reaching this exciting milestone. I look forward to seeing you in the fall. Go Seawolves!

Sincerely,



Rick Gatteau, PhD

Required Orientation:

All new students at Stony Brook University will participate in a multi-part orientation. Orientation is required for all new students and consists of Seawolf Foundations online orientation modules, participation in the advising and registration process, virtual group workshops including Seawolf Connections and commuter/resident panel, and New Seawolf Welcome Week.

View stonybrook.edu/orientation for more information.

NOTES:

Campus Landmark: Boulders are scattered about the Stony Brook campus, several hundred being 20,000 year-old leftovers from the Ice Age glaciers that once blanketed Long Island. During the extensive excavations that accompanied the initial construction of buildings and roadways on campus, these boulders were unearthed and incorporated into the landscape. Today, many of these ancient rocks serve as brightly painted totems for fraternities, sororities, and other campus organizations.

Seawolf Q&As:

Attend our virtual Seawolf Question & Answer sessions to learn more about campus resources and have your questions answered in real-time by both staff and students. Each session is topic-based, with a variety of topics offered to help you connect to the many campus resources available to our Seawolves!

Whether you have questions or just want to listen and learn, we encourage you to attend as many as you can to help prepare you for your time at Stony Brook University. These sessions are designed with both students and family members in mind! Students should view their email for sign up instructions. Families, please visit our website to sign up.

New Seawolf Welcome Week: New Seawolf Welcome Week is a multi-day experience geared toward getting new students acclimated to Stony Brook University and to introduce them to faculty, staff, and fellow students. Students will each have a unique schedule. In order to fulfill New Seawolf Welcome Week requirements, students are required to attend all of their assigned workshops. All programs will be available on SB Engaged by August 1st. We will provided all students with access to a step by step guide to view and manage their schedule.

All dates in this calendar are subject to change. Please visit the website for the most current information.

SBU Weeks of Welcome (SBU WOW):

SBU WOW is an initiative focused on introducing new students to campus life but also ensuring the start of the semester is vibrant and engaging for all students. Events during "SBU Weeks of Welcome" are not only geared toward new students, but all students looking for community, connection, and new ways to get involved. Events during "WOW" include paint nights, movie nights, virtual game nights, fitness/ personal wellness events and more. All events can be found by logging onto SB Engaged & selecting the event category "SBU Week's of Welcome." Check backoften, as events are being added daily! Also, follow @sbengaged on Instagram for up to date information!

Red Hot Tradition: Between 1:00-2:20 pm every Wednesday during the academic year, few classes are scheduled, giving students a chance to come together for some of Stony Brook's most exciting events. We call it Campus Lifetime, a weekly tradition dating back to 1991. Campus Lifetime features carnivals, concerts, student expo fairs, live entertainment, celebrity speakers, free food and giveaways—plus a chance for informal face-to-face encounters in the midst of hectic academic schedules.

Career Center

The Stony Brook University Career Center is committed to educating students around the career development process, preparing them for their careers and job search, and connecting them with employers and professional development opportunities. They offer a series of events including job and internship fairs, educational workshops, employer information sessions, and more. Visit our website and follow us on social media to learn more.

Fight Song

The Fight Song was written by Perry Goldstein and Howard Gimpel in commemoration of the band's inaugural season.

We're the red-hot
Seawolves of SBU,
We never stop fighting
until the battle's through.
Let's go Stony Brook,
Let's go team,
Don't let go until you hear
them scream:
Seawolves Rock,
Seawolves Rule!
Let's go Stony Brook
the number one school.

Go, Fight, Win

(Victory Song)
Music & Lyrics:
John Leddy
The band plays Go, Fight, Win during its pregame performance at all home football games and after each first down during the game and during breaks at men's and women's basketball games. The band also plays the Victory Song after each football and basketball home victory.

Go! Fight! Win!

Campus Landmark: It's a long way from Cretaceous-era Madagascar to present-day Long Island; 8,600 miles and 70 million years, to be precise—but Manjungasaurus crenatissimus looks right at home in the lobby of our Administration Building. The exact replica of the Cretaceous meat-eater is patched together from specimens unearthed on Madagascar by a team of Stony Brook University paleontologists, led by Dr. David Krause of the Department of Anatomical Sciences. The fearsome skeleton has even acquired a nickname: "Stony Bones."

Stony Brook University Alma Mater

Sandy Shore

Music: Peter Winkler
Words: Winston Clark

Sandy shore
Meeting the Northern sea
Ancient ground where newborn dreams arise
Scarlet, gray
Under azure skies
The morning of a lifetime
lies in Stony Brook
Raise a grateful cheer
for Stony Brook!

Youthful joys
Youthful folly, too
Ancient wisdom seen
through youthful eyes
Lifelong friends
Bound by youthful ties
The morning of a lifetime
lies in Stony Brook
Raise a grateful cheer
for Stony Brook!

The Alma Mater

Stony Brook's Alma Mater, "Sandy Shore; was adopted in 1985 after a composition contest. Dr. Peter Winkler, a professor in the Department of Music, in conjunction with lyricist Winston Clark, wrote the winning submission. Carol Marburger, wife of former University President John Marburger, is credited as the guiding spirit behind the song.

The band plays the Alma Mater during its pregame performance at all home football games as well as at the conclusion of the games as the team stands and salutes the band from the field. The band also plays it at the conclusion of all men's and women's home basketball games.

Red Hot Tradition: Commencement is definitely our favorite tradition—the act of proudly sending forth graduates with degrees that are valued around the world. New students can start on the right track by visiting our Career Center. Resources include help finding internships and jobs, resume writing, job fairs, and visits from alumni who are professionals in various fields.

Campus Landmark: Ashley Schiff Memorial Park Preserve. Dr. Ashley Schiff was a dedicated and popular professor of Political Science and avowed naturalist in the early days of Stony Brook University. In 1970, a 26-acre woodland, lined with oak and maple trees, often walked by Professor Schiff and his students, was set aside to honor him. Fauna spotted in the area include garter snakes, Virginia opossums, rabbits, chipmunks and box turtles. The preserve is located between Roth Quad and the Marine Science Research Center.

Campus Landmark: The Zebra Path is a striped geometric walkway connecting the Academic Mall with northern sections of campus beyond John S. Toll Drive. The eye-catching path lies in front of the Career Center and behind the Melville Library. In March 1981, as part of an advanced seminar in public art, Stony Brook student Kim Hardiman won a grant to beautify the campus. Her 232' x 12' handpainted walkway, regularly refurbished with new coats of paint, constitutes one student's lasting tribute to the Stony Brook campus.

This Community Belongs to All of Us

Statement of Community

As members of Stony Brook University, we acknowledge that the primary purpose of this community is education, including academic achievement, social development, and personal growth.

In committing ourselves to study and work at Stony Brook, we agree to promote equality, civility, caring, responsibility, accountability, and respect. We also recognize the importance of understanding and appreciating our differences and similarities.

As members of a respectful community, we will not encroach on the rights of others, either as individuals or as groups. We recognize that freedom of expression and opinion entails an obligation to listen to and understand the beliefs and opinions of others, and to treat others fairly.

We strive to be a responsible community. We are accountable individually for our personal behavior and development, and collectively for the welfare of the community itself.

We encourage all Stony Brook community members to celebrate and express pride in our community's academic, athletic, and social accomplishments, and to involve themselves in the surrounding local and global communities.

In affirming this statement, we commit ourselves to becoming dedicated, active, and full members of Stony Brook University in each and every role we assume. Available online at stonybrook.edu/commcms/pres/vision/community.html.

University Community Standards

The Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards supports the educational mission of Stony Brook University by addressing and resolving situations in which the behavioral choices of students may negatively impact others and/or themselves. Through our student conduct processes and outreach, we educate students on the rights and responsibilities of community membership, and support the success of individual students and the Stony Brook University community as a whole. We aim to achieve these goals through a range of interventions from informal guidance and reflective conversations through formal student conduct processes which can lead to restorative and educational outcomes for our students. The Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards addresses inappropriate student conduct and serves to educate students on how their behavior affects themselves, others, and the University community. University behavioral policies and procedures are outlined in the Code of Student Responsibility and are reviewed on an annual basis through the Code Revision Committee, which includes significant student participation. Students may apply and become Administrative Hearing Board volunteers. Once selected, Hearing Board volunteers are trained to hear evidence and render fair and objective decisions on allegations brought to the formal hearing process. For more information please visit our website: stonybrook.edu/commcms/studentaffairs/ucs/.

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, is a federal law that prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in every educational program or activity that is federally funded. At Stony Brook, the law protects all students, faculty and staff from sexual discrimination, including all forms of sexual misconduct, harassment and violence.

Stony Brook University is committed to the mission of Title IX and to eliminating sex discrimination. We take our Title IX obligations seriously and we will take immediate and appropriate action to thoroughly investigate sexual harassment and sexual violence, to protect victims and to combat recurrence. Stony Brook's designated Title IX Coordinator is Marjolie Leonard; they can be reached at (631) 632-6280 or titleix@stonybrook.edu.

More information, including detailed definitions and a link to file a complaint, is available on the Title IX online resources website at stonybrook.edu/titleix.

All-Gender and Gender-Specific Facilities Use

Students, faculty, staff and other members of the Stony Brook University community are permitted to use facilities such as restrooms or locker rooms consistent with their gender identity, in compliance with federal and state laws and regulations, including Title IX. Accommodation of the needs of our entire community also includes the creation of all-gender, multi-use restrooms. All-gender restrooms are available at the Student Activities Center (SAC), and the Walter J. Hawrys Campus Recreation & Wellness Center and allow LGBTQ* individuals, persons with disabilities who may require assistance from a companion of a different gender and families with small children to freely use these facilities without facing discrimination or alienation. All public single-occupancy bathroom facilities are designated as all-gender for use by no more than one occupant at a time or for family or assisted use. For a listing of all-gender and single-occupancy restrooms please visit stonybrook.edu/commcms/studentaffairs/lgbtq/ourcampus/restrooms.php

Alcohol and Other Drug Policies

The University has established policies and procedures regarding the use and possession of alcoholic beverages and other drugs on property owned or leased by Stony Brook University, applicable to all members of the campus community, including students, faculty, staff, alumni, and visitors. Alcohol may be purchased, possessed, or consumed on the campus only by individuals who have attained the age of 21, and in approved locations. Student violation of alcohol and other drug policies will result in corrective measures that may include student conduct referrals to the Office of University Community Standards. On campus student support and intervention services are available for alcohol and other drug problems. Students are strongly encouraged to use these services. For more information on the University alcohol and other drug policies please refer to the Code of Student Responsibility: stonybrook.edu/commcms/studentaffairs/ucs/conduct.php.

Tobacco-Free Policy

In keeping with the University's desire to provide a respectful, safe, healthy, and clean environment for all students, employees, and visitors, the use of tobacco products is not permitted at Stony Brook. No forms of tobacco use are allowed on University property. This includes all indoor and outdoor locations. The use of tobacco is also prohibited in all University vehicles, which includes buses, vans, cars, and trucks. The sale of cigarettes and other tobacco products is prohibited anywhere on University property, and tobacco advertisements must not be publicly displayed at the University. For more information on the University Tobacco-Free Policy please visit stonybrook.edu/commcms/tobaccofree/.

Religious Exemption Policy

The University is committed to ensuring that every student has the right to pursue their education while practicing their faith via the Religious Exemption Policy which covers holidays of many faith traditions. Students are required to alert their professors of any religious conflict before the final date of the 'add/drop' period every semester. While students will be excused from any classes covered by the policy, they are still responsible for all work. All student absences in order to practice their faith will be viewed as an 'excused absence,' with no negative consequence. Faculty are strongly urged to avoid scheduling examinations, papers, presentations or other assignments to be due on any of the major listed holidays. When this is unavoidable, students will be given the opportunity for an equivalent make-up. Questions about the policy can be directed to the Interfaith Center or the Provost's Office. To view the full Policy Regarding Religious Holidays please visit: stonybrook.edu/commcms/provost/faculty/handbook/academic_policies/religious_holidays_policy.php.

Stony Brook Curriculum (SBC)
All undergraduate students at Stony Brook must complete general education coursework that fulfills the learning objectives outlined in the Stony Brook Curriculum or "SBC" for short. The SBC ensures students will learn the skills necessary for life-long learning. Some of the SBC objectives will be fulfilled in a student's major, but others will allow students to explore new areas of study. Some students may even discover a major, minor, or new area of interest by taking courses that fulfill SBC objectives.

Student Accessibility Support Center (SASC) 632-6748
SASC coordinates advocacy and support services for students with disabilities. These services assist in integrating students' needs with the resources available at the University to eliminate physical or academic barriers and to ensure an accessible academic environment. All information and documentation of student disabilities is confidential. SASC can assist with University procedures and requirements, and test accommodations as well as the recruitment of readers, interpreters, and note-takers. Voice/TTY is available at 632-6548.
