

MEMORANDUM

TO: University Senate

FROM: Michael A. Bernstein
Interim President

DATE: March 2, 2020

SUBJECT: President's Report

I. APPOINTMENTS & DEPARTURES

Carol Gomes Appointed CEO of Stony Brook University Hospital

Carol A. Gomes, MS, FACHE, CPHQ, has been appointed Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Stony Brook University Hospital (SBUH). Carol has been serving as Chief Operating Officer for SBUH for the past six years and recently took on additional responsibilities as Interim Chief Executive Officer. A recognized authority in the healthcare industry, with more than 35 years of experience, Carol has served a majority of that time at Stony Brook University Hospital. Under her leadership, SBUH planned for expansion of its operating rooms and radiology suite, continued the integration of Stony Brook Southampton Hospital and Stony Brook Eastern Long Island Hospital into the Stony Brook Medicine Hospital System, led award-winning sustainability efforts, and achieved the hospital's recent recognition by Healthgrades as one of America's 100 Best Hospitals™ for commitment to quality of care and outstanding clinical outcomes, amongst many other honors. Carol earned two Master's degrees from Stony Brook University in Management and Policy from the Harriman School for Management and Policy and Healthcare Management and Administration from the School of Allied Health Professions.

Matthew Whelan Named President of Caldwell University

Matthew Whelan, EdD, Vice-President for University Enrollment Strategy and Relationship Development, will head to Caldwell University (Caldwell, New Jersey) to become its 9th President at the end of this academic year. Caldwell is a Catholic Dominican institution, and Matt, a New Jersey native, will become the first male lay president in its history. At Stony Brook since 2006, Matt has provided exceptional stewardship of strategic planning, institutional research and effectiveness, enrollment management and admissions, facilities oversight, and intercampus operations. Matt has played a significant role in our efforts to secure improvement in student retention and graduation rates, the socio-economic mobility of our alumni, and the enhancement of the Stony Brook student experience. I wish him every success in his new leadership role.

Laura Lindenfeld Appointed Dean of the School of Journalism

Laura Lindenfeld, PhD, Professor of Journalism and Executive Director of the Alan Alda Center for Communicating Science since 2016, has been appointed Dean of the School of Journalism, effective March 1. Laura has been serving as Interim Dean of the School of Journalism since January 2019. She has demonstrated herself to be a highly effective leader in that time, establishing a comprehensive strategic vision and developing new programmatic opportunities for the School. Dr. Lindenfeld will continue to serve as the Executive Director of the Alda Center. A communication researcher focusing on environmental and sustainability communication, Dr. Lindenfeld's work has been supported by the National Science Foundation, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration Sea Grant Program, the U.S. Department of Education, and the U.S. Department of Food and Agriculture. She has published over 50 peer-reviewed articles, chapters, and reviews in a range of journals such as Science Communication, Ecology and Society, Environmental Communication, Sustainability Science, Communication and Critical/Cultural Studies, and Food and Foodways.

Nicole Sampson Appointed Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences

Nicole S. Sampson, PhD, Distinguished Professor of Chemistry, has been appointed Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences effective March 1. Nicole has been serving as Interim Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences since July 2018. Dr. Sampson has been an indispensable leader serving as Interim Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences since July 2018. In that time, she has developed a comprehensive vision for the future of CAS, all while stewarding the College into a stronger financial position. Her tireless work to unite members of the College community to elevate the stature and impact of the College is evident through the numerous initiatives already launched, and those in development. Dr. Sampson's research interests span from unraveling the molecular intricacies of mammalian fertilization to finding new treatments for tuberculosis and cholera. She has received more than $17 million in research support primarily from the NIH and the National Science Foundation. She has authored more than 100 peer-reviewed articles, reviews, and issued patents. Her awards include the Arthur C. Cope Scholar Award and the Pfizer Award in Enzyme Chemistry, both from the American Chemical Society, and she is a Fellow of the American Chemical Society. She currently serves on the Board of Directors of Brookhaven Science Associates, the entity that manages Brookhaven National Laboratory.

II. UNIVERSITY ACCOLADES

Stony Brook Ranked Ninth Most Diverse University

Stony Brook was named the ninth most diverse university in the nation by USA Today in a February 13 feature article. At Stony Brook, according to the article, "there is at least a 79% chance two randomly selected students will have a different race, ethnicity, or U.S. citizenship status." Across all undergraduates nationwide, such a likelihood is about 69.6%.

Stony Brook Named One of America's 100 Best Hospitals for 2020

Stony Brook University Hospital has been named one of America's 100 Best Hospitals™ for 2020 by Healthgrades – the only hospital on Long Island to receive this achievement for the past two consecutive years and among only five hospitals in New York State this year. The distinction places Stony Brook University Hospital in the top 2 percent of nearly 4,500 hospitals assessed nationwide for its consistent, year-over-year superior clinical performance as measured by Healthgrades.

Stony Brook is Again Recognized for Voter Engagement Efforts

Stony Brook University has again been nationally recognized for its commitment to student voter engagement and was ranked among 139 schools listed by Washington Monthly as top schools for student voting. In 2019, student voter turnout increased by over 600% in local elections.

SBU Earns “Tree Campus USA” Designation from Arbor Day Foundation

Stony Brook University has once again received Tree Campus USA recognition from the Arbor Day Foundation for its dedication to healthy forestry, sustainability and environmental stewardship on campus in 2019. This marks the seventh consecutive year that the University has received this honor. Stony Brook earned its recognition through the implementation of five core standards that promote the health of trees and student involvement to improve campus forests.

III. SBU INVESTS NEW ENDOWED MEDICINE FACULTY

On February 6, Stony Brook University formally invested Anissa Abi-Dargham, MD, as the Lourie Endowed Chair in Psychiatry; Henry Tannous, MD, as the General Ting Feng Cheng Endowed Chair in Cardiothoracic Surgery; and Ute Moll, MD, as the Renaissance Endowed Professor in Cancer Biology.

IX. FILMMAKER SPIKE LEE TAKES ON POLITICS, PARENTING, AND PROMISES IN PRESIDENTIAL LECTURE

Kicking off Black History Month with a February 5 Presidential Lecture in Stony Brook University’s Staller Center, acclaimed writer, director, producer, actor, author and educator Spike Lee joined me for a wide-ranging discussion that touched on politics, parenting and the challenges of growing up as an African-American. For more than four decades, Lee’s award-winning films have focused on race relations, discrimination in the black community, the role of media in contemporary life, urban crime and poverty, and other cutting-edge issues. He revolutionized modern cinema through daring and memorable films such as She’s Gotta Have It, Do the Right Thing, Jungle Fever, Malcolm X and Summer of Sam. In 2019 he won an Academy Award for best adapted screenplay for his film Black KKKlansman.

X. ATHLETICS UPDATE¹

General News

- On February 12, Stony Brook Athletics hosted a panel discussion that brought the athletics and campus communities together to chat about strategies to help advance diversity, equity and inclusion. Diahann Billings-Burford of the Ross Initiative in Sports for Equality (RISE) moderated a discussion with Stony Brook students Cameron Avery, Maya Brown, and TJ Morrison, as well as university official Kimberly Joy Dixon and assistant football coach Diamond Weaver. Roughly 100 people attended the discussion.
- For more than three decades, National Girls and Women in Sports Day has been celebrated across the nation during the first week of February. On February 8, sixty-three Stony Brook student-athletes volunteered as Stony Brook Athletics hosted nearly 150 local children to celebrate and encourage girls' participation in sports. The children, ranging in age from 2 through 13, rotated among stations to gain exposure to various sports, including baseball, volleyball, soccer, and track. After the clinic, they attended the women's basketball game against New Hampshire.

Winter Sports

- Women's basketball is in the midst of the best season in program history. The team has an overall record of 25-3, which included a 22-game winning streak that recently ended with an overtime loss at Maine. The team clinched the America East regular season title for the first time in school history and will host the conference tournament beginning on March 4.
- Men's basketball is 18-11 and in sole possession of second place in the America East, despite the loss of leading scorer junior Elijah Olaniyi to an ankle injury. Playoffs begin on March 7.

Spring Sports

- Women's lacrosse is off to an exciting start. The team is up to No. 3 in the national Nike/US Lacrosse poll after defeating No. 4 Syracuse and Ohio State to open their season. The team heads to Gainesville to take on No. 8 Florida on February 29.
- The Softball team is off to its best start since 1991 after beginning the season with a record of 5-0. Junior Dawn Bodrug tossed a perfect game against Cornell during season-opening play at the Madeira Beach Tournament in Florida.
- Men's lacrosse is off to a 3-1 start under first-year head coach Anthony Gilardi. The team recently defeated Brown University in overtime on February 22.
