Reports of incidents are received from UPD, RHDs and RAs that name specific students.

If there is no possibility that a named student's behavior violated any policies, the student is not contacted.

If there is a possibility that a named student's behavior violated a policy, a meeting with the student is scheduled.

Students have a reflective meeting with a trained staff member. During the meeting, they have an opportunity to share their perspective on the incident and are provided resources.

Letters are sent to students after student conduct meetings that indicate if a student is responsible for any alleged violations.

If a student is found responsible for any violations, they may be assigned educational interventions designed to help them learn more about our policies.

Students are eligible to appeal decisions made within the student conduct process. The appeal must be submitted within 7 days using the link from the summary letter.

If a student is found not responsible, their involvement within the process ends.
